ABOUT FAMILY HISTORY

Family history is about names, places and dates.

To research family history we need a name, a place and a time. In other words Who? Where? When? Ballarat and District. We have experienced volunteer researchers who know their way around Ballarat and District. We have the know how to follow families with a Ballarat connection to other parts of Victoria, into other states and overseas. This was particularly evident as the mining declined towards the end of the 19th century.

Basic genealogical research requires Births Deaths and Marriages. The information on official records is available online.
