

Australasians who count in London and who counts in Western Australia

In the Foreword to her publication in June 1913, Mrs Leonard W MATTERS, said;
Anglo-Australasians take pride in following Henry Lawsons' advice to his countrymen:

"Hold up your heads in London,
Tread firm in London streets!"

This book contains details about people "who matter" in Western Australia, Australia in general as well as New Zealanders and Australasians in London. WAGS past President Brian Croker has provided us with an index of the people mentioned in the publication, thank you Brian. Intersting Blog item on Mrs Matters is here

There are 317 surnames in the surname column. The book is available online through the National Library of Australia here
